“ Aaron was such an amazing person, he had so much love to give, and was such a genuine person, and that says something about who he was. I knew him almost a year, but felt like I knew him most my life. He made my son who was really closed off to most people, open up and be himself again. I, and all my family are really hurting that we won't be blessed with his amazing smile and big hugs, because they were so real. We love him dearly, and will never forget his good heart and kindness.

“ I remember Aaron when he was playing baseball during the summer leagues at Pool Park. He as an excellent pitcher, and I do mean excellent. His granddaddy, Freddie Snowden, always watching over him and his brother, who also was talented with pitching the baseballs. I remember his mother, Kim, keeping track of every ball he pitched and would not let him pitch more balls than he was supposed to to keep his arm in shape. His granddaddy and grandmother, Shirley, has a practice field behind their home for kids to practice on. Aaron was always a friendly, respectful person. Beautiful smile. RIP young man.

“ We met at chili's I'll never forget our first conversation. It surprised me when he remembered it and repeated word for word. There was this song called dancing on my own that he played on repeat when we were chillin one night. I've been playing a lot cause it reminds me of him and his goofyness. Never got to tell him I love him but that's okay I know I'll see him again someday. I'm sorry for y'all's loss my condolences to everyone grieving. One day at a time this to shall pass
