“ I never knew a single day in my whole life without you...until today. It just doesn't feel right without you...even the clouds were gloomy and the sun did not show its face today. I have so much to be thankful for, all because of you. My most best childhood memories involved you, right up on that hill. Every break from school and every summer I was headed right to your house. I slept in your big bed with you, went to work with you and you even let me write on your waitress notepad. We made breakfast and peanut butter cookies and countless grilled cheese sandwiches in your kitchen. We went to Jason and Justin's ball games and made a few trips to the Bluegrass Festival. I'll never forget your unique vocabulary, the way you smelled or how you always called me "Little Girl". You taught me so much. You will always be the strongest woman I'll ever know. I sure will miss you Mammaw. You take my heart with you. Thank you for the best memories and the unforgettable laughs. May you Rest In Peace as the heavenly angels are singing and the birds are chirping. I'll love you with my whole heart forever and ever.
