“ It's so hard to fathom that we'll never get to see the sweet, handsome face of our dear “Cousin Chris” here on Earth again. To smile just because he smiles...to hear his laugh as he tells a story - and laugh along with him, just because of "his laugh". I will always remember his big beautiful eyes – that some may know what I mean when I say that he would do this “stare trance-like thing” when he was in deep thought. My son Nate, so reminds me of him at times because he does the same thing. I told Chris about it the last time we were together at Aunt Betty's 😞 visitation, he smiled. So many memories growing up - I can hear Aunt Betty scolding, "Christopher Daniel!", whenever he was into mischief, which was pretty much every day 😊. One of my favorite "school era summers", was the one Chris came to Battle Creek, MI to stay a week or so at Uncle Jessie's and Aunt L.E.'s (our house). There are songs that transport us to particular times in our lives, and I have several special ones from that time, and always think of Chris whenever I hear them. Time then seemed to go by so much slower than it does now, and we didn't have a care in the world - except for where in our neighborhood we'd gather together with the many other neighborhood friends Tony, me, and Timmy had, all in the same age range. I remember well – a day we all rode our bikes down to the river to go swimming above the waterfall by the Emmett Street Bridge (pretty sure none of our parents knew). There was a rope swing Tony & Chris used, that us girls were too afraid of because we didn't trust the current not to pull us over the falls. That day, the boys were throwing these big globs of seaweed/mud stuff at us & each other. Chris leaned over the falls to get a handful....let me tell ya - he has been the only person I've ever known about or seen to go over those waterfalls! He disappeared, and then appeared, disappeared, and appeared. We were lucky he didn't get hurt - but instead was laughing every time he came up, and hanging onto the big glob in his hands! Then there was the M-80 firecrackers - let's just say it's lucky we didn't land in the hospital! I was just so sure I'd get the chance to see him again...the idea even had crossed my mind to maybe road trip travel to Texas with Robin one day(?) - but it is not meant to be. I think of his texts to me and the message he posted for us when our Momma, his Aunt L.E. passed: In Memory of L.E. Hammock - Condolence From: Chris Norris

Condolence: This world loses a Saint and Heaven gains another. One of the sweetest women I have ever met and one that always made me proud to be in her family. LE's home was always one of my favorite destinations as a child, and Aunt LE and Uncle Jesse were always some of my favorite guests as an adult. May Heaven help you Kids, I can only imagine your pain. Aunt LE I Love you and will miss you. You have been a true blessing in my life. Please give Uncle Jessie and Nic a hug from me. We will all be along soon enough - Sunday May 13, 2012.

I repeat his words - May Heaven help Robin, Carl, Joe Bob, Ashley, Jon Tom and families. I can only imagine your pain. Chris - I Love you and will miss you. You have been a true blessing in my life. Please give my Daddy & Momma, Aunt Betty & Nic a hug from me. We will all be along soon enough. Love you boy - Tina “ Chris was my cousin. I always loved visiting him and his family as we were growing up. I seldom got to see Chris after I moved out of Michigan and he moved to Texas but he holds a special place in my heart. He was such a handsome young man and he had a heart of gold. I wish peace and comfort for his family.
