“ My most treasured memories of my Grandpa were spending Easter on his farm when I was a little girl. I could not wait to pick out the most beautiful dress I could find, knowing all along it was going to get ruined. The dress didn't stand a chance, between tractor rides, gopher holes, barbed wire fences and the cows that I loved to pet that lived next door, it was doomed. I just wanted to look like a princess for him. It was always an amazing day. What little kid wouldn't love a whole farm yo hunt Easter eggs on. Sure, I had to share with my big sister but there were plenty to go around. Not a single Easter goes by that I don't think of those wonderful memories.
