“ One winter we had a bad ice storm, we all had been gone all day, and our poor Friskie dog had been outside. We brought him in immediately when we got home. Well the next morning when my dad went to let Friskie back outside, Friskie refused to go. So dad said, "well I'm smarter than the average dog" and he went and got a hot dog and, walked Friskie along with it to the back door. Well, as soon as my dad opened the door Friskie grabbed the hot dog and ran back into our utility room. My Dad then said, "Well, I guess I'm not smarter than the average dog."
