“ I met Jennifer Jaynes through her mother-in-law, Miss Margy, who is one of my Mothers’ very longest friendships. It was during one of Christopher’s surgeries, that we had sent a message and became FB acquaintances. She was always so warm, open and sincere. She introduced me to her amazing talent and I read and loved all of her books. This world was brighter because she was here to light it up for awhile. Jennifer was not one of my BFFs, I did not know her intimately, like you know someone who’s been through the trenches with you, but she was a person I met, in passing, that mattered. She loved her children, she loved her craft and tried so hard to be the very best she could be. Rest softly Jennifer....you will be missed.

“ I have only known Jennifer through Facebook! We communicated about many things. Her books, in which I won a copy of on her Facebook contest. Another interest we shared was interest in the Keto Diet. But more importantly was when I disclosed my cancer! She immediately reached out to me privately to discuss possible cures and/or people who might be able to aide me! I was so blessed!! I know people much more personally who said they would pray for me. But even though we had never met she really reached out to me with resources and a really caring advise! I was sad to hear of her divorce. So Im shocked as I know the family is more so!! She reached out and blessed me when I needed it but it’s too late for me to return the blessing! So sorry for you, the family, Brian, and especially the boys!
