“ John took me to the 9th grade Athletic Banquet. My first "high school" date. He got an award - of course! We hung out in the parking lot afterwards talking and laughing. When he walked me to the door, he kissed me. At that moment, we both knew--we were meant to be just friends. It felt like we were kissing our siblings. It was sooo awkward then we busted out laughing! It was a truly precious moment for me. I felt seen and appreciated but not like a piece of meat. Which is how I'd felt often during that time in my life. John was always a kind and wise soul even at the age of 14. My life was blessed knowing him.

“ There are many memories with John; all of them good. I remember a bunch of us sitting with him during Courtney’s brain surgery at Parkland. After many hours, the pediatric neurosurgeon came out to report all had gone well. He had a ponytail, and looked about twenty. John and I looked at each other as if to say “This child has had his hands all up in my daughter’s brain?” But he knew what he was doing, and she was fine.

“ John was 13 the first time I went to his house/property to hang out and spend a weekend. At 13, he took me out in the pick-up during which time he cut stuff with a chainsaw, hauled it in the back of the truck, threw it on a pile and started a burn, and if I remember correctly, even shot a snake with a gun. I felt like a boy hanging out with a full-grown man--like Billy Crystal in awe of Curley from City Slickers, if you know the reference. I guess that explains how he burned his hand cooking french fries at 11.

“ John you were one of a kind, one of the bests. I'm so grateful to have known you most of my life. I'll never forget playing T-ball and having you as my coach. One of my favorite memories was when one of the other girls wanted a turn fielding the ball but I kept getting it. She asked me if I could give it to her to throw in next time I got it and I did just that. I remember when I told you why I did it and you smiled and said okay ma'am. From then on You gave me the nickname of ma'am. To this day when I would see you I would here “well hello ma'am!” You are loved by so many. My heart breaks you aren't here with us anymore but I'm so grateful we have the promise to all be reunited once again. Say hello to Nina for us and tell her we miss her too.

Shaun we love you dearly and our hearts are broken for you. Please know that we are all here to hold you up in these difficult days ahead. John loved you something fierce. You could see it in his eyes when he talked about you and was around you.

John Holey,,, where do I begin, school buddies for sure. You're smile was contagious and that little smirk you carried around, one of the most polite, smart, kind, generous, loving man. Last time I saw you was at Texas Bank & Trust, you jumped out of your truck to tell me about your new love (Shaun), I was so happy you'd found love again. You glowed with happiness. I'll forever miss you,,,, Rest In Peace John, love you BIG 🙏🙏
