“ Our memories are too many to count. Our last one was the beautiful breakfast we had together just two weeks ago and you spoke of how much you loved your birth mom for the gift she gave you of your parents! And how wonderful and supportive your parents have always been in your life and there could have been no greater gift that Starr could have chosen for you than them! I was in awe of how you were expressing your love for them, And now my mind is flashing back to when she handed your little body over to them in the delivery room and their tears of joy were flooding their face and how I knew we had all made the perfect choice and we did! And our journey began! Birthdays and holidays, sleepovers and so many times of just sharing in your life. Laughter and crying. And then that very sad day we lost your birth mom. I can't help but wonder did the light go out of your heart then? I asked were you resentful towards her, you said absolutely not. You said you were proud of your Mom and proud of your Dad and loved Starr even more for that great sacrifice. I do too. What a wonderful, Godly Mother and Father you have. The strength and sacrifice to love and give of their life not only for you my sweet Matthew but they loved my sweet Starr, your birth mom too with all their heart from the very beginning and for that we will always be eternally humble and grateful.

“ I remember when he was driving me home, he pulled over and sat there asking if I was okay. I had been thrown out and he asked if I needed to stay somewhere. I told him I had somewhere to go and he asked me if it was safe. He wanted to make sure I had what I needed and if I was gonna be okay physically and mentally. He was so caring. The late night talks we had a couple days ago were something I'll always remember. The night we became best friends..
